Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Bulletin of the University of Wisconsin, Vol. 9: Economics and Political Science Series; 1918 A well-known English writer, Mr. Percy Alden, says that the history of a nation is in large measure a history of its land system. One of our own pioneer builders, Mr. James J. Hill, says: Land without population is a wilderness, and population without land is a mob. The United States has many social, political, and economic questions - some old, some new - to settle in the near future; but none so fundamental as the true relation of the land to the national life. The first act in the progress of any civilization is to provide homes for those who desire to sit under their own vine and fig tree. A prosperous agricultural interest is to a nation what good digestion is to a man. America has had the wilderness; whether or not it shall have the mob depends upon the intelligence and the ingenuity with which it develops its system of land tenure and encourages the growth upon the...
